Nouns; Members of my Family—Text

Who can remember the words we learned in our past lessons? There are a lot of them, so let's try to remember together.

- How do you say the magic word, please, in Spanish? (answer—por favor)( Pour fah-vore)
- How do you say thank you? (answer—gracias) (grah-see-us)
- Can you remember how to say “You’re welcome?” (answer—de nada) (day nah-dah)
- What about “no thank you?” (answer—no gracias) (no grah-see-us)
- How do you say “hello” in Spanish? (answer—hola) (oh-la)
- How do you say “goodbye” in Spanish? (answer—adios) (ahh-dee-ohs)
- How do Spanish speakers say “Spanish?” (answer—Español) (eh-spun-yole)
- And how do you say Mommy in Spanish? (answer—Mami) (mah-me)

Wow! You really know a lot of words in Spanish now! Let's learn some more.

Today we should learn the words for the people in your family. Hey, that's a great word to learn in Spanish! Let's learn how to say family! The word family sounds like “familia” (fah-me-lee-uh) in Spanish. It kind of sounds like family, doesn't it? Listen again. “Familia” You should try to say familia. Go ahead and try it.

That's really good! You are really learning how to speak Spanish. Great job!

So who are some of the people in your family? You already know how to say Mommy. Do you remember?

That's right, Mami! Very good.

Did you ever wonder how you say Daddy? It's a pretty simple one. Daddy sounds like “papi.” (pah-pee). That's not too hard, is it? Why don't you try saying “papi.”

That was great! Try it one more time. How do you say Daddy in Espanol?

Super! Let's try it one more time.

Very good! You're really good at this. Let's keep going. The next word we're going to learn is like a lot of Spanish words because, if you change the last sound in the word, it makes it mean something else. Let me tell you what I mean. We are going to learn the word for brother. In espanol, the word brother sounds like “hermano” (air-mahn-oh). Here's the funny thing. Hermano ends with the “oh” sound because brothers are boys. In Spanish, if a word ends in “oh,” it's usually a boy word. So, the word for brother is “hermano.” Why don't you try to say “hermano.”

That was pretty good! Let's try it again. In Spanish , hermano means brother. Say Hermano one more time.

Great! Remember how I told you that boy words end with “oh?” Well, in the same way, girl words end with “ah.” Usually in espanol, a word that is a girl word ends with “ah.” Boy words “oh,” girl words “ah.”

Pretty easy, right? Well, bothers are boys, and so their word ends in “oh,” hermano. But sisters are girls, aren’t they? So their word ends in “ah,” but it sounds like hermano. The word for sister in Spanish is “hermana” (air-mahn-ah) the two words sound the same except the last sound in each, don’t they? Hermano. Hermana. Easy, right?

Why don’t you try to say “hermana?” Go ahead, give it a try.

That was nearly perfect. Try it again. The Spanish word for sister is “hermana.” Say it again.

Great! Now you can say brother and sister. Sometimes, brothers and sisters are babies, aren’t they? We should probably know how to say baby, too. Baby is a really easy one, because it sounds almost the same in english and espanol. The way you say baby in Spanish is bebé (beh-beh) See, that sounds almost the same, doesn’t it? Bebé. I think you can say bebé. Why don’t you try?

Very nice. Say baby in Spanish one more time.

Excellent. You are really good at this!

So let’s try to remember all the words you learned in espanol today.

- How do you say Daddy en espanol? (Answer—papi) (pah-pee)
- How do you say brother en espanol? (Answer—hermano) (air-mahn-oh)
- How do you say sister en espanol? Remember, it sounds like hermano, but with a different sound at the end. (Answer—hermana) (air-mahn-ah). Boy words with o, girl words with ah.
- How do you say baby en espanol (Answer—bebé) (beh-beh)

That’s great! You can say a lot of stuff now, like:

Gracias mami
Hola hermano
Por favor Papi?
Adios hermana

You’re really learning a lot. Keep practicing until next time!
